

Deploying remote working in this challenging time?

In this difficult pandemic time, most companies are asking their employees to work from home. Equipping all your workforce for remote working in no time puts your cash position under the most pressure. Econocom can help you during this unforeseen event:

We offer you a flexible facility (PRA) that allows you to order equipment on-demand and defer payment

We buy back your newly acquired equipment to put cash back into your business

We support your cash position during this challenging period

In these difficult times, health and safety are the most important things.

At Econocom, a leading provider of financing and as-a-service solutions, we want to do our bit to help organisations overcome cashflow issues related to this pandemic situation.

We would be happy to create an ad-hoc ordering facility with deferred payment options for your company or to put cash back into your business via a sale and leaseback solution.

Get in touch today to deploy remote working immediately, without impacting your cash position