Econocom UK is a digital services provider. Econocom UK is committed to the improvement of the environment surrounding its activities, products and services for the benefit of employees, customers and those within our sphere of influence.

Econocom UK is accredited to ISO 9001:2015. Econocom UK is committed to prohibiting and driving out acts of modern day slavery and human trafficking within its business and its supply chains, including sub-contractors, and partners. The Company acknowledges responsibility to the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and will ensure transparency within the organisation and with suppliers of goods and services to the organisation. As part of the company's due diligence processes into slavery and human trafficking, our supplier approval process will incorporate a review of the controls undertaken by our suppliers. Imported goods from sources from outside the UK and EU are potentially more at risk for slavery/human trafficking issues. The level of management control required for these sources will be continually monitored. The company will not support or deal with any business knowingly involved in slavery or human trafficking.

The company's directors and senior management shall take responsibility for implementing this policy statement and its objectives and shall provide adequate resources (training, etc.) and investment to ensure that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place within the organisation and within its supply chains. A full copy of this policy and a copy of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 will be accessible to all employees electronically and can be obtained from the Legal department upon request. These documents take into account, and support, the policies and procedures compliant with the requirements of ISO 9001:2015.

Formal procedures concerning slavery and human trafficking have been established. Additional procedures ensure that this policy is understood and communicated to all levels of the company, and that it is regularly reviewed to ensure its continuing suitability and relevance to the company's activities. The ultimate responsibility for slavery and human trafficking not taking place within the organisation and its supply chain lies with the Managing Director, who will ensure that it is given equal priority with other major business objectives. Implementation of this policy is a line management responsibility at all levels together with participation of all employees.

This policy, supported by instructions, procedures and organisational arrangements within Econocom UK, is to be applied to all activities, products and services carried out by the company. All directors, managers, supervisors, employees and subcontractors will enforce this policy.

The board of directors approved this statement on 19/12/2018.

The policy will be revised and updated as necessary.
